AWESOME

It is always a good practice to add viewport tag inside all HTML files.

```
<meta name="viewport" content="width=device-width, initial-scale=1">

It does provide the following advantage while rendering the page.

- Use viewport tag to control the width and scaling of the browser's viewport.
- Include width=device-width to match the screen's width in device-independent pixels.
- Include initial-scale=1 to establish a 1:1 relationship between CSS pixels and device-independent pixels.
- Ensure your page is accessible by not disabling user scaling.

Of course, you can read more about how to use viewport at the link below.

https://developer.mozilla.org/en/docs/Mozilla/Mobile/Viewport_meta_tag

SUGGESTION

Don't be afraid to put comments in your HTML. It is a very good habit to have. Helps you a lot when you ar project with multiple developers. You can learn more about them here : <https://www.w3schools.com/tags/>
